

Credit and Banking

Necessary In All Business

Gain the reputation of having good credit by starting the habit of saving with the institutions of credit—and have resources to the assets their recommendation means to a man in business.

A man's credit is good or he has good credit indicates that he has the reputation of paying his debts and has the ability to do so, and that therefore other men are willing to sell him goods and to await for their pay until a future period.

ARE YOU LIKE the man who did not look towards the future. Like the man who valued a mess of pottage today worth more than a whole fortune in the future?

A sign of savagery and primitiveness not to save. Travellers have again and again told that among the Indians and primitive peoples of the uncivilized parts of the world the utmost recklessness and improvidence are shown towards the future.

Some people today are just as careless and reckless of the future as savages.

CAPITAL ENABLES A MAN to increase his business; buy more land; raise more stock—marching straight to affluence among his fellow men, for he has learned how to save; how to invest, and has the good favor and well recommendation of a bank.

Harry Gullum, United States treasury operative, was fatally wounded and his assistant, J. L. Sharpshurg, had minor wounds, as the result of a gun battle with alleged counterfeiters near Gallipolis.

DO YOU REALLY THINK OR MERELY THINK YOU THINK? Do you really think or do you merely think you think?

Just a moment! Before you answer hark to the opinion of Robert R. Gault, professor of psychology at Northwestern University, Chicago, delivered in a lecture on "Suggestion and Suggestibility" before the University guild in Evanston.

"Men and women think less than they assume they do," declared Dr. Gault. "What they mistake for thinking is often only obedience to their prejudice and other more or less unconscious dispositions. They believe not so much what is reasonable as what they want to believe. So-called beliefs are attained from suggestions playing upon predisposed natures."

Dr. Gault then went, for example, to the wartime stories of atrocities circulated throughout Germany. These stories, he said, were described by both Belgian and German writers as having "arisen in expectant and hence suggestive natures."

WHEN WEATHER GROWS COOLER

When the mercury drops on what has been expected to be a warm day, this cape of brown jersey silk proves a welcome and charming addition to the summer sport outfit.

SUMMER FADS AND FANCIES

Dotted swiss hats are made over black taffeta foundations—with white dotted swiss.

Rhinestone buttons on the light wrinkled bodices of some of the new frocks are an interesting detail.

There are so many interesting fabrics, among them one called tissue gingham. It really looks like gingham, but it is very thin and sheer with gingham patterns.

Dotted batiste is one of the smart fabrics for summer frocks. The dots are big, machine embroidered, and usually in a bright color. Frequently the batiste is of ecru.

Some of the exceedingly smart midsummer hats are made of black moire silk mounted on stiff frames. They have a welcome look for severity when worn with light frocks.

A good many sport coats are made without buttons and are held together simply by a belt. Sometimes the belt buttons, sometimes it ties in a knot, and sometimes there isn't even a belt, but the coat hangs loose and open.

Very attractive handbags are made of silk, with little landscapes and groups of figures made of painted bone used as trimming. These are especially interesting if the foundation of the bag is of a plain dark silk.

Costs of a plain, color worn with striped skirts are still in good favor. Many are bright red or green, worn with skirts of the color and white. Some are of black, with black and white striped skirt. Then there are the bright-colored coats worn with white skirts, of flannel or crepe de chine or some one of the unusual silk weaves that abound in the shops.

Many frocks show belts running through a series of rings of some sort. These rings are fastened around the frocks at waist or hips or at one of the indeterminate lines in between these two locations. Sometimes these rings are of bone, sometimes of metal, sometimes of wood, and sometimes of silk. They are an effective way of introducing a simple trimming without much work.

DARN MATTING WITH RAFFIA

Material Affords Much Better Appearance Than Patch Applied With Thread.

Sometimes when moving a piece of furniture, especially if it is heavy, the matting will receive an ugly tear. To mend this, simply darn the matting with raffia in colors to correspond. This can be very neatly done and it is much better than to patch it or to mend it with thread. Sometimes it will be found necessary to run heavy cord across the patch through which to pass the raffia. With a large darning needle the cord can be sewed in place and fastened securely. On the edge of the matting worn and frayed places are often found and these also can be neatly mended with raffia.

Low Flat Heels.

The comfort of the low heel in walking has created a decided vogue for oxford shoes with heels, not of the French type, but broad and flat. The dresser pumps, although showing three-strap effects and cut-out designs, will be of a similar design. Patent leather is considered very smart at present.

French dots, Russian mesh and Shetland effects in veils are most popular, and there is a noticeable trend for veiling by the yard rather than the bordered veil.

In handling radium one must wear a coating of lead for protection against the rays. With radium at its present price the demand for lead suits is not likely to be very great.

A Frenchman who remained under water for three minutes, during which time he ate cherries, is referred to as the "human fish." He ought to be referred to as the human robin.
